With the launch of its ambitious new strategic plan, Canadian Blood Services (CBS) is seeking a Director, Enterprise Program Enablement and Project Management Office (PMO) to join its dynamic Corporate Services team.

Reporting to the Chief Financial Officer & Vice President, Corporate Services, the Director leads the enterprise PMO, providing enterprise project and program delivery services, portfolio management, and project and program management methodology, training, and quality assurance expertise across Canadian Blood Services. To do so you will work directly with clients, project sponsors and business owners to deliver projects to the scope, budget, and requirements of CBS' business. This role intersects closely with the organization's strategy management and strategic financial management functions where seamless integration and the ability to steward collaboration and decision making are essential to the success of the Director.

As an ideal candidate, you bring an undergrad degree in a relevant field (business, administration, technology, health, etc.) combined with proven experience at a senior leadership level in project, portfolio and program management, ideally in a PMO setting. You are an outstanding communicator and relationship builder, comfortable in stewarding the alignment of interests across a diverse array of internal clients and partners extending from board and executives to front line staff. CBS will benefit from your sound knowledge of strategy management, strategy execution, enterprise performance management, enterprise risk management, portfolio management, change management/execution, and project planning. You bring demonstrable skill in navigating multiple competing priorities, executing with urgency, building and maintaining high performing teams, and experience managing and implementing change, ideally with a mixed unionized/non-unionized environment. You are respected for your strong focus on outcomes and proven ability to collaborate, negotiate and influence effectively in a large and complex organization. Peers highly value you for your emotional intelligence, drive, authenticity, detail orientation, and analytical skill. Project Management certifications such as a PMP or PRINCE 2 are considered an asset.

Are you ready to embark on a meaningful and inspiring journey, where what you do matters? Be part of Canada's lifeline. Because we can all be the reason, the connection, that keeps Canadians living.
